Ms. Marx said her favorite food was anything sweet, her favorite book was “Thank you Mr. Faulkner”, and she hoped to create a sense of community and make the 4th and 5th grade more memorable for students, and would work closely with the SPED department.

MSBA UPDATE:

Assistant Superintendent Farrell outlined and explained the Mass. School Building Authority updates as follows:

1. A Selection Committee was appointed by the Mayor of the City of Newburyport from members of the City of Newburyport School Building Committee. The task of the Selection Committee was to prepare the Request for Services (a report of the Owner’s Project Manager Selection Process – Bresnahan Model School Project had been given to each Committee member) for an Owner’s Project Manager for the Bresnahan Model School project, review responses to the RFS, Interview qualified firms and make a recommendation to the Mayor. The Selection Committee ranked Heery International first based on their level of relevant experience, their approach to prioritizing the needs of the facility, and the procedures that they have in place to ensure that the project design is as complete as possible, combined with the fact that they scored in the initial ranking by the Selection Committee.

Discussion:

Mayor Holaday spoke of Assistant Superintendent Deirdre Farrell’s hard work in this very complex process. She reported on the meeting at the State House with Katharine Craven and MSBA to include pre-K, K in the model school. They walked through the process to date and timelines. The next phase is to attend a meeting on September 12.

Assistant Superintendent Farrell spoke of the next step to enter into the FSA agreement, the model school design selection. She stated she got commitment today from MSBA for pre-K, K. This news brought a round of applause from all in attendance. They now need to get teams selected and site visitations formulated.

Stephanie Weaver inquired as to how could community members let someone know of their interest. Assistant Superintendent Farrell explained.

Mayor Holaday asked School Committee members to let her know if they were interested, and asked the Daily News representative to publish information for the community to become involved. She explained that there had been several meetings during the summer. This is a campaign (the debt exclusion). There will be a September 14th workshop to learn what can and cannot be done for the campaign. This will be a community event, which will break up into 4 groups. Nick deKanter spoke about the website and said they were close to having this up and running within the next few days. Updates will be added as necessary. Mayor Holaday said she will e-mail the Committee with further information. She spoke of bonding and past practices.

Cheryl Sweeney inquired if Newburyport will be the only model school with pre-K, K? Assistant Superintendent Farrell explained.

Dan Koen stated the architect/designer comes with the school, and asked if there was a limit of 6 model schools, and asked if there was room for changes. Assistant Superintendent Farrell explained.

Mayor Holaday stated there has been some discussion about fields. They are putting together a comprehensive list of fields, and possible new sites for fields.

PUBLIC COMMENT:

Dominique Deare CONCERN: She spoke of several things; transparency, at what point the mayor can begin talking about restructuring the debt, economy, and are there restrictions from MSBA regarding financing.

Dr. Ralph Orlando CONCERN: He stated he believes in the value of the new school project, but we need to look at and discuss what goes on inside schools.

SUPERINTENDENTS REPORT:

Superintendent Dr. Kerble acknowledged the following:

1. The two day leadership retreat for districts' leaders at which time there were presentations concerning leadership, the new evaluation process, strategic thinking, goals, and a presentation by Angela Bik.
2. Opening day for teachers – this was an absolute fantastic day. He spoke to teachers about what he expects. Our students depend on the greatness of our teachers. The facilities were terrific, the teachers ready and people were happy.
3. Wireless program – this takes time. He thanked the NEF for their funding. They will roll out wireless in pieces as it happens.
4. X2 Program/X2 Family Portal – Letters will be going out tomorrow; each parent will get a log-in and password. It is a little bit hectic, but by October 1 we will be in the groove. He extended thanks to Judy Webster and the Technology Department
5. Boston Magazine – Boston Magazine ranked Newburyport 16th in Massachusetts in the “Best High School” category. This is very exciting, but, we need to look at all of the scores, we need to increase MCAS efficiency scores in grades 3-8. We have a lot of work to do.

He thanked Cathy Manning and the Central Office staff.

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENTS REPORT:

Assistant Superintendent Farrell reported on the following:

1. Transportation – this is off and rolling. We have a wait list of 25 families and hope to accommodate some of these in the near future.

2. Safety – We had a Public Safety meeting with public health, police, fire, etc. This was a very successful meeting.
3. Enrollment August 29 – the Committee was presented with the August 29 figures for enrollment – system wide the figure was 2,337 students; but the official enrollment is October 1 and she will be reporting figures to the Committee after that date.
4. Facilities – There were 284 work orders that were processed.

1. We had a full professional development day workshop – this sets a tone for the year. A lot of work went into the day. He thanked EBC, Heather Hanson, Business Coalition, Melody Cody and Ken Spinney. He asked Nick deKanter to give a further report on the day’s activities.

Nick deKanter: This was a luncheon – the purpose of which was a place-based learning project based on learning. All teachers were here with 39 businesses in attendance. Businesses, which were set at tables, networked with teachers providing information and business cards; there was a raffle based on teachers writing down an idea on place based learning and project based learning. This was a positive exciting day. Thanks were extended to Bill Heenehan, Cindy Johnson, NEF that sponsored tote bags, and all the businesses that participated.

Assistant Superintendent Angela Bik reported that she has received positive feedback from teachers. She reported on the Common Core standard workshops, the X2 refresher workshop, assessment and integration training, anti-bullying training. There were 4 different facilitators. Associate Principal Testa said he was impressed with the facilities and how well they are kept up, but it is all about the kids. He has enjoyed meeting the staff. He sees stretching himself in dealing with the responsibility of the student master schedule.

The School Committee gave a big welcome to him.
